

Answers for the Talking Dog

1. D. an end table

I determined my response because the dog sat next to Kerry so I inferred that the answer would be something next to a couch

2. A. paint job

I determined my response because the diner was in a rural town and was described as an undistinguished diner.

3. Kerry stopped at the diner to inquire about the sign out front about the talking dog for sale.
4. Elements in the story that are like elements of a tall tale is that the story could never happen. Tall tales are filled with exaggeration and hyperbole.
5. The last paragraph is so funny because the diner owner is getting rid of the dog because he lies not to make money selling a talking dog.

Summary

Kerry was driving in Montana and saw a sign for a talking dog. She went into the diner to ask about buying the dog. The dog, Max, explained to Kerry how he had traveled all over the world and spoken to many important people. When Kerry asked how much the dog was, Max shared that he was $10. When Kerry asked why so cheap, the diner owner shared that the dog was a liar.
