DIRECTOR'S NOTES

Amelie is a story with a collection of characters who are full of heart, despite having been knocked around by life. Amelie herself, coming from parents who tried their best yet didn't know how to really love her, is the ultimate representation of this perseverance. She loves to make connections happen for others, to help them find love in their lives, yet doesn't know how to do that for herself. When Nino appears, another flawed yet beautiful soul, she has to confront her own need for connection. This story is ultimately about how love connects us all, and as imperfect and unguaranteed as it is, it is worth it. As the wise café women tell us, "All the while, while love infects us, the side effect is that love connects us."

Like so many musicals these days, Amelie began as a movie (2001). The sweet French girl with her active imagination, empathetic and magical outlook, and an inability to connect with others in a 'normal' way, won the heart of anyone who saw the movie. The musical version of Amelie, starring Philippa Soo, ran on Broadway in 2017, and then on the West End, beginning in 2019. The musical was changed quite a bit for the West End version, and it was nominated for several Laurence Olivier Awards (the Tony's in England). This version, with its reimagined score and orchestrations, is the one we are presenting at West. Although the musical wasn't what we might consider a long-running success on Broadway, it is a beautiful ensemble piece, full of heart and soul. I am excited that the Harlequin Club will be among the first in the area to present this special show. As I knew they would, the students jumped into this show wholeheartedly, as they do with every show.

I want to take this opportunity to thank the production team: Phoenix Fritch, Cheri Snook, Jordan Brennan, Kathryn Morehouse, Sierra Safran, Sydney Periard, and Suzanne Safran. Working with such professional and positive people make even the most challenging times both fun and rewarding. I also want to thank my student leaders, especially Ellie Kuhnle and Addisan Arbogast, for their continual positivity and tremendous work ethic. And seniors—Ellie, Addisan, Olivia, Bella, Lily, Lesley, Jack, Kieran, and Alexis—I cannot wait to see where you fly in your lives. Although selfishly I want you all to stay, I know the world needs your kindness, perseverance, abilities, and empathy. All the students of the Harlequin Club are uniquely special and I think you'll see that shine through in a wonderful way through Amelie.

Probably the most famous lyric/quote from Amelie is "times are hard for dreamers." Collectively, as 'theatre kids', my team, cast, and crew can relate. Continuing to put on theatre through these past two years has been exhausting physically and emotionally. It has been a trying time here specifically, and certainly in the broader context of the pandemic. But perhaps that is also what makes creating theatre with these people in this space so very special right now. Watching the students thrive as performers, creators, and people brings me joy every rehearsal. Helping to facilitate their dreams is an honor. I am so excited and proud to present this beautiful show to our friends, family, and community.

"They say times are hard for dreamers, and who knows maybe they are, people seem stuck or lost at sea. And I might be a dreamer, but it's gotten me this far, and that is far enough for me."

Over the years, the Harlequin Club has been an environment of constant support and safety. It has shown me that, no matter what, we are always welcomed and loved in our little corner of the world, and I would like to thank every member of the club for making that possible. Our creative team is phenomenal when putting together a show, but more than that, Jess, Phoenix, Cheri, and Mrs. Safran have been nothing but compassionate since I've met them. The four of them have shown everybody that you are not defined by what the rest of the world thinks of you. Do what you want to do, be who you want to be, and everything else will fall into place. The cast of this show is a truly exceptional one. I watch from the auditorium, and I'm blown away by the talent. I go backstage, and I'm blown away by how kind everybody is. It just goes to prove that the people and encouragement you find in the Harlequin Club can't be found anywhere else. We are all beyond fortunate that we walked into an after-school activity and found a family. It has undoubtedly been a crazy year (for the seniors, more like a crazy few years) but we have still managed to make something wonderful. So, I hope you love the show as much as I've loved getting to be a part of it. And to the members of the Harlequin Club, whether you're graduating, or you still have a few more shows left, I cannot wait to see where do you go from here. -Addisan Arbogast, Co-President

SENIORS

Olivia Davis-Eagan, Jack Sheridan, Bella Atkinson,

Seniors: I hope you run the world someday soon. Your talent, maturity, professionalism, empathy, and humor individually and collectively is beyond compare. When I reflect on your time with the Harlequin Club I am astounded by your resilience, but mostly, at your ability to make the most of your experiences and simply enjoy making theatre together. You'll never know how much you've pulled me up through challenging times by your example and your presence in my life. You help me to remember how magical theatre and life can be. I love you all to pieces and can't wait to watch you soar in the future!

There are no words to accurately depict the genuine love I have for this club. I am so appreciative and thankful to have gotten to be a member of this family for the past 3 years. Harlequin Club is a place where we can cheer one another on, cry on each other's shoulders, make magic together, and everything in between. Everyone has a heart of gold, and everyone has a special place here.

This club would not be as special as it is without our creative team: Jessica Bostock, Phoenix Fritch, Cheri Snook, and Suzanne Safran. Every member of the creative team is not only extraordinarily talented and hardworking, but equally as kind and respectful. High school is such a challenging time developmentally, even without a pandemic, but these lovely adults have created an environment that supports self-discovery and growth. It has been so exciting watching our club grow through the years and I have so much anticipation to see where it is headed. I truly love every one of you so much. Thank you for being my people. -Ellie Kuhnle, Co-President
